

BPEC - Purpose Statement

Title of the Qualification	GDA-002 BPEC Level 1 Award In Introducing sustainable energy efficiency to potential customers
Qualification Number (QN)	600/7179/5
Overview
-Who is this qualification for	This qualification requires the completion of centre based knowledge assessments and are designed for individuals who may be required to introduce to potential customers the benefits and implications of having energy efficiency measures installed at their homes/premises.
-What does this qualification Cover	This is a Level 1 qualification of 2 credits and 10 guided learning hours consisting of 2 mandatory units. BOTH units must be achieved in order to complete the qualification. Successful completion of this qualification proves that learners have to knowledge to introduce to customers different energy efficiency measures, which may be installed at their homes/premises. Understand how to introduce the Principles and Operation of the Green Deal to potential Customers. Understand how to introduce energy efficiency measures to potential customers.
What Could This Qualification Lead to
-Will the qualification lead to employment	Current governmental agendas in promoting sustainable energy production and consumption, means there is a need for Individuals to explain to potential customers the benefits and implications of having energy efficiency measures installed at their homes/premises. This qualification would therefore give holders and advantage when applying to work in this field.
-Will the qualification lead to further learning	The qualification is intended to give learners the knowledge to promote energy efficiency to customers. Once interested in green energy efficiency solutions, holders could go on to undertake a related VRQ to become an adviser. An alternative route may be taken, learners may be able to progress to NVQ Level 2 in in customer service.
Who Supports This Qualification	Asset Skills EON